

Figure 5.9. Starting the boundary layer calculations just after the jet forms shows the dissipative effect of viscosity, resulting in a slightly shorter jet compared to the purely potential flow case.